UNIVERSITY OF SAN DIEGO

Special to the Brooklyn Graphic

January 26, 1972

SAN DIEGO, Calif. --While not the most prolific scorer in USD history, Jack Robinson has provided many exciting and interesting moments for USD and opponent fans alike.

At 5-10 Jack is usually looked upon as one of the small guys that just "happened" into the big man's game. However, when Coach Bernie Bickerstaff puts Jack on the center jump with men 6-9 and taller, Jack is never outjumped. He might not control the tip everytime but he does make the opponents and fans take a better look at this very small wonder.

Jack enrolled at the University of San Diego, a small Catholic institution high atop a bluff that overlooks all of San Diego previous to the 1970-71 season. Prior to USD he spent two years at Gavilan College, a junior college in Gilroy, Calif. where the coach used him at all three positions the one year he participated in the round ball game. Jack has been a guard exclusively at USD and has set one record at the school. Although it is not a published record, Coach Bickerstaff has suggested that if statistics were kept on such things, Jack in his two years has probably been called for goaltending more times than any other Torero!!

Jack is a General Biology major at the coeducational, 1250 student-populated liberal arts university. He is contemplating an additional year after his graduation in 1973 to acquire a teaching credential. Jack has also given thought to pro ball but admits that as graduation draws closer, scholastics are more important in his future than athletics.

He has produced a 2.4 overall grade point average for his three years of collegiate work and is still undecided as to whether to stay in San Diego or return to his native Brooklyn. In that he will still have a year of eligibility remaining following the current season, Jack sends his best to all in Brooklyn.

When asked for any advice he might have for prepsters in his hometown he replied, "Stay in school and study hard. Education is a means to an end and there is no substitute."
